

Mr. Sean Gossel

Sean Gossel has a diverse academic background which includes studies in music, mathematics, physics and financial accounting. He was also a FAA and CAA certified commercial pilot and acquired years of charter pilot and operations management experience.

Sean headed up ROE consulting from 2003 to 2006 and specialized in the areas of feasibility studies, business planning, capital-raising and financial strategy. From 2006 to 2009 he was employed at BDO Spencer Steward Inc as a Corporate Finance Executive where he built up extensive experience in the areas of valuations, financial and economic analysis and modeling. Sean is currently the Managing Member of Red Sky Research, a company that specializes in financial and economic analysis and modeling.

His academic credentials include an MBA in finance and econometrics from the University of Cape Town's Graduate School of Business (GSB) and he is currently studying towards his PhD at the GSB in the field of macro-econometrics and capital flows.